

St. Philip's Anglican Church, Vancouver, B.C. (33 stops, 41 ranks)

In 1961, Jean Girouard completed the installation of the new Casavant Frères Opus 2645, in an open chamber at the left side of this church's chancel. This is an early example of an all new installation neo-classical style voiced organ done under Lawrence Phelps' guidance. In 2007, Casavant provided a Harmonic Flute 4 and Hautbois 8 to the Swell which originally had that reed stop in 4' based pitch. The addition done under area rep. Steve Miller's supervision cost $45,000 and brought the total pipe complement to 2,192 pipes. The organ's pipework can be seen from two sides of its location. There is a simple single flat facade of grey metal speaking Principal 8 pipes along the opening into the nave and the chancel side has a projecting chest facade of Mixture and upperwork ranks from the Great as well. The Swell and Choir boxes can be seen behind and above the Great and Pedal divisions. The detached full compass three-manual and AGO pedal board drawstop console faces the front from the opposite side of the chancel from the case.
